for Pine and Mrs. Corrigan.

We confess to more than usual PRIDE in our present VARIED AND EXTENSIVE DISPLAY OF CLOTHING, because this season we have been manufacturing exclusively from the FINEST IM-PORTED FABRICS, and we KNOW that every garment will stand the most CRITICAL TEST OF MERIT. As an evidence of this, we desire to call SPECIAL ATTENTION to our $12 AND $15 SUITS, which upon examination will be found as perfect in FIT, FINISH and STYLE as anything that can be "made to order" at $25 to $30. We can speak with equal confidence of our $10 AND $12 KERSEY OVER-COATS, which would be marked $20 and $25 elsewhere. These garments are fully up to the standard of the BEST CUSTOM WORK, and WE EARNESTLY RECOMMEND THEM FOR GENUINE SERVICE. We also have SILK-FACED OVER-COATS AT $12, which cannot be duplicated for less than $25. We should not omit to mention WE ARE SELLING THE MOST FASHIONABLE STYLES OF HATS AT CASE PRICES!

TEEMER IS READY FOR GAUDAUR.

The Great Oarsman Talks to the "Evenis World" About the Coming Race.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD]
PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 21.—As the time for having the question of superiority settled between John Teemer, champion carsman of America, and Jake Gaudaur, ex-champion, draws near the interest grows greater. Teemer was seen to-day by

THE EVERING WORLD correspondent, and in speaking of the race, said:

"My new Ruddock arrived from New York Monday, by the Franconia, and Wallace Hoss brought her on. She's a beauty and. I think, some improvement on the craft I used in the race with provement on the craft I used in the race with Hanlan.

"I was out in the new boat twice to-day, accompanied both times by Ross and Plaisted, in a double. Plaisted says I am getting too fast for him; so he had to get Ross to help him out.

"I am, of course, in the best of shape for a hard race, but I don't advise my friends to give odds on me, for the New-York people must not lose sight of the fact that Gaudaur has beaten me the last four times we have met, and I have weighed him up carefully while he was here, and both Hamm and myself are of the opinion that he is rowing, if possible, better than he did at any of the previous races we have had. However, I shall do everything that lies in my power to down him, and so settle up that old score of June, 1886, at Pullman."

"How about your proposed trip abroad?"

"I don't know any more about my proposed trip to Engiand than I read of in Trax Wost.D, but anything Mr. Keenan does for me in that line will row me. I know his backers will put up the money for him, if he will row, but he must have learned something of Yankee scullers during his visit here."

girl, who keeps house for her widowed sther and her brother and sister, it No. 524 West Fifty-fifth street. Just after supper last evening, she had sewing to do, and left the house to borrow a pair of scissors from Mrs. Boney, who lives on the top floor of No. 506. Mrs. Boney has a young lodger named Michsel Pine, who has been keeping company with Mamie some little time, and the knowledge that ahe would meet her young man may have induced her to go so far for the scissors. She found Michael there drinking beer with Mr. and Mrs. Boney, and lingered a while with the scissors in her hand. Before she left, which was about 8 o'dlock, she had drunk two glasses of beer.

On the way downstairs she met Mrs. Corrigan, a quarrelsome woman, who lives on the first floor with her fourteen-year-old daughter Maggie. The Corrigans had been drinking heavily and were spiteful enough to wit Mamie about her visit to young Pine. Sharp words on both sides led to a flerce quarrel, the original combatants being joined by Mr. and Mrs. Boney and young Pine, who came downstairs with the intention of stopping the fight. Mrs. Boney had a broomstick in her hand with which she dealt Mrs. Corrigan a cutting blow across the forehead.

Mamie Foley saw her opportunity and passed out into the yard. Mrs. Corrigan followed her and again the fight was renewed, It lasted while the two Boneys, young Pine and Mamie retreated upstairs to their own rooms. Jim Foley, Mamie's brother, came in at this time, and he blamed Pine for giving his sister liquor and getting her into a fight. Mamie and Mrs. Corrigan rene pulling each other's hair at the moment and seemed determined to keep it up. Jim Foley and Pine separated them, but as soon as Mamie rot sway Mrs. Corrigan ran at her again, and Pine separated them, but as soon as Mamie for tway Mrs. Corrigan ran at her again, and Pine separated them, but as soon as mine of stairs which led to the roof.
